The Pros & Cons of Using Mobile Devices for Studies, What The Students Say...

- PROS

- "Smartphones can be as efficient as computers if used to use them"
- "Can be accessed anywhere! No excuse not to work"
- "I have used a Smartphone as an aid to research/check basic facts such as case dates, but usually I have my laptop with me and it is more convenient to view results on a larger screen. I am a little bit sceptical as to how well-adapted the law databases would be to Smartphone access."
- "I use my iPhone, when I cannot access a computer, to access Lawbore, Westlaw and Lexis Nexis."
- "Sometimes you need little bits of information, googling terms for example that a smart phone is easy for. Also if you're out and about. My smartphone loads adobe so i can use it anywhere for larger files and articles as well."
- "Easy to use when you're on the move and not near a computer"
- "Quick and easy to find what i was looking for"

- CONS

- "Seriously? For law it would just be too goddamn small of a screen and waaay too difficult to organize the MASS of sources you'll be using."
- "Internet is too slow; I'm usually using a laptop when working"
- "Too small, restricted software. Requirement for multiple tabs, copy paste to actual work etc."
- "It is much easier to just use a laptop, generally mobile phone are slow, and also mobile applications for these things always sacrifice function ability"
- "A smartphone has a tiny screen and it would infuriate me trying to find anything with it"
